IBHE: cuts may force one college to close

by Marc Pacatte

If higher education funding does not improve, it may become necessary to close one of Illinois' public colleges or universities, the Illinois Board of Higher Education's executive director said Tuesday.

According to Associated Press reports of Tuesday's IBHE meeting in Chicago, IBHE executive director Richard Wagner said, "If we're going to maintain quality programs, then we're going to have to down-size this system."

He added that the IBHE executive staff will begin to look at options while Gov. Jim Thompson considers how much money Illinois can afford to spend on higher education in the next fiscal year.

Wagner said alternatives to closing a school include combining or eliminating programs currently in operation at campuses across the state.

Dominick Bufalino, IBHE member and Board of Governors chairman, said, the IBHE is "in a limbo" until the governor presents his budget figures to the General Assembly.

The IBHE canceled next month's meeting because Thompson probably will not announce his specific budget figures for higher education until some time in March. The board will meet April 5 in Springfield.

Bufalino said Thompson, who usually attends the IBHE's February meeting to present his budget recommendations for education, told the board he would not be at Tuesday's meeting.

The governor wants to present his tax reform plans to Illinois citizens before he presents them to "a small group of educators," Bufalino said.

Thompson is expected to present those plans in his "State of the State" address Feb. 8.

Several legislators recently told the Daily Eastern News that Thompson will ask for a 3.5 cents-per-gallon increase in the state's gasoline tax, an increase in the state income tax and another tax to replace the personal property tax.

Bufalino said, however, that the IBHE is mainly worried about possible additional cuts in this fiscal year's education budget, which has already been cut by $20.1 million.

"We're keeping our fingers crossed that there not be another cut," Bufalino said, adding that he has a "good hunch" more cuts are coming.

"We're gearing for that," he added.

Bufalino said the board "heard a lot of doom and gloom" in January when it met with Thompson about budget prospects for higher education.

IBHE Chairman William Browder said the outlook is "pretty bleak."

He said the meeting with Thompson "was indeed not a comforting and reassuring picture of our financial situation."

Wagner said the IBHE has submitted a $1.36 billion budget request to Thompson, which is a 12 percent increase from last year.

He added that if the governor recommends spending less money than the board requested, the IBHE will be faced with deciding how to distribute the funds among Illinois universities at the IBHE's April meeting.

Merchants give student discount cards mixed review

by Gary Burrows

Area merchants interviewed recently said their feelings concerning the possible implementation of a second student discount card are mixed.

The National Student Savings Cards distributed last December offer Eastern and Lakeland students discounts between 10 and 15 percent at several area businesses. The cards were sponsored by University Press.

A committee consisting of members of the Charleston Area Chamber of Commerce, area businessmen and some Eastern student government representatives is currently considering the feasibility of distributing another student discount card.

But several merchants who advertised on the University Press savings card seem hesitant to consider the chamber's new card proposal.

Lois Vonderhide, owner of The Open Door and Just Pants, Cross County Mall, Mattoon, said, "With all the problems with the last card, I doubt very much if I would go through it again. The Chamber of Commerce would have to prove themselves. But I will give it some thought."

Vonderhide said some problems arose with the University Press cards when students without cards borrowed them from other people or tried to use other student identification instead. Bob Gary, manager of Ben Franklin, 1430 E St., also said he would have to think carefully about advertising on another card. "It'll take some consideration. The main problem our store experienced is that the last cards came out late—about two weeks before Christmas." The cards were originally scheduled for distribution in August.

"We aren't making money off the venture, but we were still able to get a lot of exposure to the students," Gary said. "I'm just not sure whether it helps."

Some merchants said University Press informed them when they bought space on the cards that they would arrive in March. However, Eastern's Student Senate did not receive the cards until November.

Bob Bartley, owner of Bartley's Garage, 814 18th St., said that after he made a contract with University Press, he "didn't hear anything more" about the company.

"We tried to get in touch with the company, but they left no forwarding address," he said.

Rose Marie Sowers, owner of Pad and Pencil Office Supply and Typewriter Service, 802 18th St., said she has only had 15 customers use the card. She added the largest problem she has encountered is that many students did not receive a card.

Six-thousand five-hundred cards were distributed to a student enrollment of over 9,000.

However, the contract merchants made with University Press stated that University Press would provide enough cards to cover all students of both colleges, along with extra cards to be sent to all the merchants involved, Sowers said.

Sowers said she waited for the cards for several months, then filed suit, doubting that University Press was reputable.

"I got out my contract, which said the company was based in Atlanta. I received my canceled check from a bank in northern Texas, and the three cards they sent me were postmarked from Phoenix," she added.

Sowers contacted the state attorney general and later filed suit against University Press after she and several merchants could not contact the company.

A spokesman for the attorney general's office said several other complaints were filed against University Press, but since the cards eventually were received by schools and advertisers, the matter was settled.

Sowers noted the card was "a terrific idea, and a good thing for the student government and the merchants," but still said she was disappointed in the company.

Although some merchants said they experienced problems with the first discount cards, others said they thought their businesses were benefitting from the cards.

Dan Ryherd, assistant manager of Ben Franklin, said the store was experiencing good response.

Twenty to 30 people use the card daily, which Ryherd attributes to "a lot of student traffic."

An employee of Yogy's Hoagies, 416 Seventh St., said response was overwhelming and "one out of five customers have been using the card."

Bartley also said response to the savings card has been good but he "was a little disappointed" the card was late.

The businesses involved made contracts between $295 and $300 with University Press during January, 1982 to be on the card. The contract stated the card would expire in two years.

News Round-up

Thompson tries to overturn block

Gov. James R. Thompson asked the Illinois Supreme Court Tuesday to uphold emergency budget cuts blocked by a state judge, saying the order prevented him from battling "the worst financial crisis in the history of Illinois."

Thompson said if the order is not overturned, it will "completely undermine the orderly and responsible means chosen by the Legislature to confront the vast problems posed by the enormous projected budget deficit in this state."

He also said Illinois will go broke in March unless the ruling is reversed.

Democrats to push new program

House Democratic leaders vowed Tuesday to push a program of "relief, recovery and reconstruction" to combat the recession, beginning with emergency bills to create jobs and provide food and shelter for the needy.

There was no estimate of the price tag, but House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., has spoken previously of an anti-recession effort costing $5 billion to $7 billion.

Aides suggested later that might be the amount dedicated to a program of public service jobs and soup kitchen-type relief for the nation's unemployed and homeless.

Truckers' strike causes problem

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—A trucker was shot at in Illinois amid other, unconfirmed reports of rock throwing on the second day of the independent truckers strike, police said.

Meanwhile, state police and truck stop operators said truck traffic was down at least 50 percent in northern Illinois and Indiana, but steel companies and produce wholesalers said effects of the strike were not yet noticeable.

Three shots were fired from a pickup truck at a semi-trailer truck driven by George Clement, 40, of West Chicago, said state police Sgt. Adrian Cross. He added that Clement was not injured.

The incident occurred Monday evening on the Tri-State Tollway about 16 miles west of Chicago. Clement was driving south and the pickup truck was heading north.

On Interstate 80, two miles west of Joliet, a report of objects being thrown from an overpass onto a passing truck causing damage to windows and mirrors was being investigated. However, police were unable to confirm those reports.

"There was a report of a truck being shot at Tuesday on I-24 in Massac County in deep Southern Illinois. Officers found a piece of broken brick. The truck driver could have thought it was a shot," Cross said.

Mike Parkhurst, president of the independent Truckers Association, estimated Monday that many as 70,000 of the nation's 100,000 independent owner-operators had parked their rigs. Government officials said it was probably more like 20,000.

Peasants attack nine journalists

AYACUCHO, Peru (AP)—This city 13,500 feet high in the Andes was the birthplace of the Shining Path insurgency; where 1,000 government troops hunted house-to-house for guerrillas in December; and the capital of the district where nine Peruvian journalists were found hacked to death last week.

Witnesses said 400 peasants attacked the reporters with slingshots, stones and machetes in Urchuraccay, 50 miles from Ayacucho. One body was tied to a crude cross.

Senate President Sandro Mariategui ordered a congressional probe after a peasant told reporters that civil guard members gave orders "to massacre any strangers because they would be terrorists."

When reporters asked for casualty figures, Brig. Gen. Roberto Noel y Moral, the armed forces commander in Ayacucho, responded, "there is not time to pick up the bodies."

Will Rogers inspected to gauge repair costs

by Mike Pramshafer

A Charleston planning committee inspected the Will Rogers Theater Tuesday to make cost estimates of repairing damages to the theater.

The theater was closed last September when the Mid-American Theater chain, which leased the Will Rogers from Frisina Enterprises, defaulted on its lease.

"We wanted to tour the building to see how much work has to be done on it and to estimate how much it will cost to repair the damages," said Bruce Stoffle, Coles County Regional Planner.

Martin Owens, executive vice president of the Charleston Area Chamber of Commerce, said, "The building won't be able to be re-opened until damages to the ceiling and wiring are repaired. There are other things that have to be repaired, but these are first on the list."

The damages, which are the result of natural deterioration of the building, are estimated to cost between $45,000 and $70,000, Owens said.

Bob Erio, student representative for the Charleston Area Chamber of Commerce, said, "After we inspect the building and see what renovations have to be done, we're going to send data concerning the building to various chains who are interested in buying it."

Owens said, "Because of its age, the building has a significant architectural structure to it. It falls four years short of being listed in the National Historic Register."

Student Senate to study financial aid seminar plans

by Douglas Backstrom

The Student Senate Wednesday will discuss plans for a financial aid seminar sponsored by the Academic Affairs and Student Awareness committees, Student Body President Terry Teele said.

Teele said he would like the seminar to be held Feb. 27, but added that the date is not official.

Teele said students should attend the seminar because it will provide information on how to apply for scholarships, Pell Grants and Illinois Guaranteed

Student Loans.

Teele said, "I have invited Ken Hesler from University Relations to be at the seminar and he will be able to tell students about scholarships and awards that are available to them."

Teele added some students do not know that there are many awards available to them.

"We want to promote this seminar so Eastern students can get a jump on getting financial assistance," he explained.

Also, Teele said he has asked Illinois Senate President Philip J. Rock to come to a future Student Senate meeting and discuss higher education and funding the state budget.

Teele said he would like Rock to meet with the senate on Feb. 16, but the senator may have a prior commitment on that day. In that case, Teele said, Rock would visit another day.

The Student Senate will meet at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the Union addition Arcola-Tuscola room.

Student athletic committee needed

Editorial

Eastern students concerned with supporting Eastern's athletic programs should join the recently formed Student Athletic Committee.

The Student Athletic Committee is a student organization interested in promoting and supporting Eastern athletics.

Committee President Bob Erio said the group would like to recruit students "who can handle responsibility and possess good school spirit."

Students who enjoy attending Eastern athletics should join the committee and encourage others to become involved. The committee has no membership limits and its eventual goal is to become a service and promotion vehicle for Eastern.

The athletic committee's future plans include helping out the Panther Club, selling souvenirs at games, distributing flyers and publicizing upcoming contests in all sports.

The committee, which was formed last semester, is still in the development stage, but it needs student interest and support to continue growing.

One campus organization that should support the Student Athletic Committee is the Student Senate. The senate's University Relations Committee should vote to recognize the athletic committee as an official Eastern student organization. By doing so, the senate will aid the organization's development.

Eastern students can also aid in the committee's development by acting now and taking advantage of an opportunity to meet and join with committee members during the group's recruitment drive Wednesday and Thursday in the Union.

By joining the Student Athletic Committee, students will have a chance to help solve Eastern's recent sporting event attendance problems and its difficulties in promoting itself on the Division I level.

The Student Athletic Committee's promotions should be geared more towards the campus population, attempting to draw more students and faculty to Eastern athletic events.

Erio and Promotion Director Kevin Anglin should be commended for their efforts to get the Student Athletic Committee off the ground.

Now it's time for Eastern students to build on Erio's groundwork and continue to develop the athletic committee.

The student body and the Student Senate should recognize this committee and aid in its growth. The committee needs this help in order to make Eastern athletics a well-rounded Division I athletic program.

Your turn

Read Vehicle, not walls

Editor:

Mr. Schinzer's letter of Jan. 31 complaining about John Stockman's album reviews has some merit. His criticisms of Stockman's subject choice and format was well-written and perhaps constructive. However, the last line comparing Stockman's writing to that of writings on "Ike's bathroom walls" is downright hideous.

I've known Stock for several years, in fact, he is now one of my suite mates. I have read many of his writings since and have found him to be a very credible author. His writings are not just those published in The Daily Eastern News every week, but others include contributions to the Vehicle and other comparable publications. He also now serves as editor of the Vehicle.

Obviously you do not agree with Stock's style and that is your honest opinion. However, to make a comparison such as the one you did borders on the fringes of ignorance. Next time you feel like reading, pick up a Vehicle instead of running to Ike's.

Constitution violated

Editor:

In a conversation recently with a member of the Student Senate, I became aware of a gross violation of the student government constitution.

This senator, whom I will leave anonymous, informed me that at the present time there are a number of senators who failed to meet the academic standards required in the constitution.

In Article II, Section A, under number four, the constitution states, "No person shall hold the office of senator who does not have a 2.30 cumulative grade point average."

Apparently, there are some senators who do not have at least a 2.30 average. I think there are many students on this campus who wish to serve on Student Senate and could meet the requirements.

Finally, I would like to ask The Daily Eastern News to bring this matter to the attention of Student Body President Terry Teele. I'm not sure who has responsibility for checking grades, but because Teele is the recognized student leader on campus, he should see that the matter is investigated and cleared up.

Letter policy

The name and phone number of at least one author must be submitted with each letter to the editor. Letters submitted without a name (or with pseudonym) or without a phone number or other means of verifying authorships will not be published.

Names will be withheld on request. Letters should be typewritten and should not exceed 250 words. Letters which exceed the 250-word limit will be edited to fit with the writer's permission. Please try to hold letters to the limit before submitting them. Handwritten letters will be accepted but may be legible.

Something's wrong with nation's priorities

Well, two events of national interest are over—the Super Bowl and President Reagan's "State of the Union" address.

Which event received more publicity? Which one did more people watch? Which one were more people concerned about?

Comparing a football game to the state of the nation is not conventional. However, responses to the above questions would probably favor the sporting event.

Doesn't this show that something is wrong with our nation's priorities?

Do we have any priorities? Shouldn't we want to know what our president thinks is wrong with our society and what he can do to remedy the problems?

As college students, we lead a fairly sheltered life. Our problems may be limited to how much we can afford to drink on a weekend, studying for a test or trying to pay a telephone bill.

But what about the events happening outside the boundaries of Eastern's campus?

Right here in Charleston there's a big to-do over whether retail stores should be allowed to sell package liquor. A liquor control commission, with a student representative, has been organized to study the issue.

Yet not many students have voiced their opinions to the commission's student representative or attended any city council meetings.

Another problem that students seem to be ignoring is rape. Rumors of rape, on and off campus, abounded last semester. However, no students or faculty stepped forward to provide any information verifying the alleged incidents, information which might have helped victims and potential victims.

We have been told "America is on the mend..."

Yet the country's unemployment rate is over 10 percent and our economy is involved in the longest recession since World War II.

Instead of worrying about how bad this situation is or whether or not the economy will force us to abandon our college educations, we lose ourselves in multi-million dollar television programming like the Super Bowl.

We plod onward, day by day, until something happens which personally affects us.

Maybe our loan check isn't as much as we thought it would be or the grade on a test reveals how much time we spent watching television. Still we go on until we no longer get a loan and are forced to quit school or continue not to study until we have to drop the class or flunk.

We passively listen to a former actor try to appease us with rhetoric.

What happened to the era when students didn't accept things so easily? The times when we protested being put into an undeclared war, which the federal government said was a good idea, but later said was not. A time when students questioned the people in control of our country. A time when we didn't take anything sitting down.

By the way, who won the game?

Center offers workshop

by Melinda Wilson

Because feelings of depression can be hard for students to understand, the Counseling Center is offering a workshop on depression Wednesday.

Counseling Center Director Bud Sanders said he and counselor David Baird will conduct a workshop "designed for students who would like to learn effective management of feelings of depression."

"Everyone suffers a little bit of depression—we can't keep everyone from being depressed, but we can help people deal with their problems," Sanders said.

The workshop could give students a better understanding of handling depression and shorten the duration of a depressed period of life, he added.

The workshop will be presented at 7 p.m. in the University Union's Rathskeller.

BOG to hold phone conference

The Board of Governors Executive Committee will conduct a telephone conference Wednesday to discuss approval of the University Professionals of Illinois' proposed supplementary agreement ratification, a BOG spokesman said.

Thomas Layzell, BOG deputy executive director for administration and fiscal affairs, said, if approved the supplementary agreement will allow for the withholding of faculty bargaining unit salaries to help compensate for any further cuts that may be made in the board's budget.

The union had ratified the agreement in December and "it is now up to the board to take action on approval," Layzell said.

The conference will be conducted at 10 a.m. Wednesday.

UB to elect new chairmen

The University Board will elect a new chairman and vice chairman at its Wednesday meeting, current UB Chairman Steven E. Jones said.

In addition to electing the new executive officers, Jones said the UB will select the Coordinator of the Year.

Delegates for the National Association of Campus Activities Convention will also be chosen at the meeting, Jones said.

UB's fiscal year 1984 budget will also be discussed, Jones said, because the UB must present the budget to the Apportionment Board on Thursday.

Jones said plans for the Feb. 26 UB banquet will be finalized at the meeting and the board will discuss the progress of the upcoming Pat Travers concert.

UB will meet at 5:15 p.m. Wednesday in the University Union addition Kansas room.

Board to discuss bids for forklift

by Debbie Coventry

The Publications Board will discuss bids for a forklift grabber unit Wednesday, Student Publications Business Manager Bob McElwee said.

McElwee said the board hopes to obtain a grabber unit for the forklift used at The Daily Eastern News for between $5,000 and $6,000.

A grabber would allow 1,000-pound rolls of newsprint, currently stored on their sides, to be stacked on end.

Also included on the agenda is discussion of replacing equipment in the News composing room.

Equipment in the composing room is not obsolete but the News could work more efficiently with newer equipment, McElwee said.

Also at the meeting, new board bylaws will also be discussed, Chairman Jack Kelly said.

In other business, the board will hear reports from Daily Eastern News Editor in Chief Lola Burnham, Warbler Editor in Chief Becky Corzilius, Vehicle Editor John Stockman, and McElwee.

The Publications Board will meet at 4 p.m. Wednesday in the Union addition Greenup Room.

Basketball leadership role familiar to Jones

Eastern's Kevin Jones maneuvers for position during the Panthers victory over Baptist College last Thursday. As a senior Jones has taken a leading role on the young Panther squad. (News photo by Tom Roberts)

by John Humenik

In the midst of Eastern's 6-12 season, Panther forward-guard Kevin Jones finds himself in a familiar situation.

Jones, one of three Panther seniors, has become the leader of a team that lacked one last year and now plays an instrumental part in Eastern's young offense.

"The guys look up to me a lot, and I can't get myself down in front of them," Jones said. "If I didn't want the leadership role, it still would've been pushed on me."

The role of leader is not new to Jones, who during his two years at Kankakee Community College, was First Team All-State and Honorable Mention All-American. He led his team to a runner-up finish in the state with a 31-4 record, while averaging 15.5 points per game.

Jones, who provided a spark off the bench last year, believes there was no team leader in the 14-13 season when Eastern's basketball program was ripped apart by frustration and attitude conflicts.

Looking at this year's tough season, Jones said, "Coach (Rick Samuels) told me that I was going to act as a leader, and I just accepted it. There wasn't a leader last year, and if I wasn't a leader we would've fell apart after we went 0-12 this season."

Jones has overcome last season's problems and has kept alive his dream of becoming a Panther standout in his senior year.

He held fast to his dream of becoming another Ricky Robinson (former All-American center whose Eastern career ended last year) and decided he could play top flight ball at Eastern.

Jones believes the fan support Robinson received throughout his career is something to work for and has set earning that support as one of his goals for this season.

He said he loves to do the exciting things Robinson did in front of Eastern roundball observers, but he admitted Robinson is a tough act to follow.

"I don't feel any added pressure this season to be a Ricky Robinson, but I like the role I'm playing," Jones said. "I'm now getting the chance to show what I can do."

Jones said that last year he just wanted to prove he could play and closed out the Panthers' second NCAA Division I season with First Team All-Mid-Continent honors and a 12.6 point average.

Consequently, Jones proved to Samuels he was a potential starter by reaching double figures 18 times and topping 20 points per game on six occasions.

This year, Jones leads the Panthers with a 17.4 point average per game and notched his season and career high (31 points) against Western Illinois Jan. 22.

In addition, Jones leads Eastern with 622 minutes played after 18 games and has registered 314 points. The guard has connected on 100 of 129 free throws (78 percent) and 107 of 189 field goals (57 percent).

"You just get the chance and show what you can do," Jones said. "I like playing 40 minutes. I don't like that bench."

"I feel I have more confidence in myself and now Coach is starting to let me do more things," he added. "I just go out there and try to do the same things."

Jones, who was averaging 13.8 points per game at this time last year, just completed what has probably been his finest week ever. He chalked up two Eastern single game records by sinking 17 free throws and connecting on 12 of 13 shots from the floor (92 percent).

In Eastern's 89-82 league win over Western Illinois, Jones tossed in 31 points and registered his record 17 of 20 charity tosses.

Jones upped his single-game field goal average to 92 percent in the Panthers' 69-67 non-conference win over Baptist College last Thursday, pumping in 27 points.

Two days later, when Eastern marked its fifth consecutive victory (73-61 win over league foe Northern Iowa), Jones scored 19 points.

Samuels said, "If Kevin Jones isn't the AMCU (Association of Mid-Continent Universities) player of the week something's wrong. I think he has really been overlooked."

Intrastate clash

Grapplers to battle Northern at DeKalb

by Rhea Nall

For the first time in eight years, Eastern's wrestling team will grapple with intrastate foe Northern Illinois.

The 4-3 Panthers will travel to De Kalb Thursday to take on the 4-5 Huskies. Despite its record, Northern head coach Don Flavin said he does not expect his squad to do to well against Eastern.

"We're 4-5 (in dual meets) and not doing too hot," Flavin said. "We're for sure not doing as well as Eastern is."

"We've seen them at the Illinois Intercollegiate meet and they were the power of the meet which was easy to see," Flavin added. "They were a very good team and a very capable team."

Northern has one very impressive victory this year, a win against the University of Missouri, a team Eastern lost to at the Southwest Missouri tournament.

However, Flavin said Missouri's top wrestler was out for the meet, which could have caused a line-up change, but said his team did "look kind of good."

However, Eastern head coach Ron Clinton was impressed with the Huskies' victory over Missouri. "They beat Missouri last week so they have to be a pretty good team," he said.

"We're always going into a meet with the idea that we're going to win," Clinton said. "It should be a pretty spirited meet and the kids should be up for the it."

Clinton added that being on the road could make it tougher for his team to perform well.

"It's more difficult to wrestle on the road than it is at home because of the ride and having to make weight," he said.

"We've done pretty well on the road and won more matches on the road than at home," Clinton added. "But we have had more meets on the road."

Northern's top wrestlers this season are brothers Earny and Gene Vatch in the 167 and 158-pound weight classes, respectively. Earny Vatch is the team leader and will face Panther standout Mark Granowski.

Other top performers for the Huskies are Ernie Christmas at 118 pounds and Joe Morral at 177 pounds.

"We should have a really tough time with them (Eastern)," Flavin said. "I hope we are capable of giving them a match. We will just have to see what happens."

Diver qualifies for zone meet

by Kirby Flowers

Eastern tanker Chris Hooley has qualified for the NCAA District 4 pre-qualification meet, giving him the opportunity to advance to the NCAA Division I swimming national championship.

Hooley qualified for the National Collegiate Athletic Association zone qualification meet when he set school records Friday in the one and three-meter diving events.

His scores of 313 and 323 points against Bradley earned Hooley, who is in his first year of collegiate diving competition, a chance to compete in the zone meet March 11-12 at Indiana University in Bloomington.

"He (Hooley) made the standard amount of points that allow a (See DIVER, page 11)

Henning new Falcon coach

SUWANEE, Ga.(AP)—Dan Henn- ing, who helped guide the Washington Redskins to the Super Bowl title as an assistant, was named head coach of the Atlanta Falcons on Tuesday, the sixth coach in the National Football League club's history.

Henning, 40, an assistant head coach and offensive coordinator under Joe Gibbs at Washington, replaced Leeman Bennett, who was fired Jan. 14 by the Falcons.

At a news conference Tuesday, Hen- ning said he agreed to take the job dur- ing a meeting in Los Angeles on Mon- day, the day after the Redskins defeated Miami 27-17 in the Super Bowl in nearby Pasadena. Terms of his multiyear contract were not disclosed.

Eddie LeBaron, the Falcon's ex- ecutive vice president, said Henning was the team's first choice among four candidates.

diver to go to a zone meet," tanker coach Ray Padovan said. "If he does well in the zone meet he will go to the national meet."

Hooley's qualification came as no real surprise to Padovan or to himself, but for it to happen so early in the season pleased the sophomore diver.

"I felt either of our divers had a chance at going to the meet," Padovan said. "If they had one good meet I thought they could qualify for the zone meet."

Hooley said, "I feel great about qualifying. I thought I could eventually qualify, but I didn't think I would so early in the season."

Padovan said he thought Hooley had a chance to go to the nationals if he performed well at the zone meet and continued to progress.

"It is a one-shot deal," Padovan said. "It is only a one-day meet. But he has three or four weeks to get ready and hopefully he will have a good meet."

Hooley said he thinks his chances are pretty good in the three-meter dive and the meet will help him in the future no matter how he does.

"In the three-meter dive I have a strong lift and I am confident I can make it to the nationals," Hooley said.

"The meet will also give me recognition and exposure," Hooley con- tinued. "A lot of people will see me and know my name if I do well, and that will help me next year."

"And I will be diving against some of the best divers in the country," Hooley added. "The experience and pressure of the big meet will be good for me."

Hall of Famers named

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—Wide receiver Paul Warfield, linebacker Bobby Bell and Coach Sid Gillman have been named to the Pro Football Hall of Fame, joining Sonny Jurgensen and Bobby Mitchell.

The five, to be formally inducted during the summer, comprise the Hall's largest class since 1978.

Warfield, the slender, swift wide receiver who was an All-Pro selection a total of five times with the Cleveland Browns and the Miami Dolphins, was elected to the Hall in his first year of eligibility, five seasons after retiring from the National Football League.

Gillman, who recently ended his pro coaching career at age 71 as a Philadelphia Eagles assistant, guided San Diego to five divisional championships and the 1963 American Football League title in his first six seasons with the Chargers.

Bell, the nation's top college lineman as the Outland Trophy winner with the University of Minnesota, played with the Kansas City Chiefs. Coach Hank Stram switched Bell from defensive end to linebacker and he blossomed into an All-Pro player.

FRIDAY: TRAVERS ROCKS EIU

by Lori McKinlay

This Friday, February 4 at 8 p.m. Lantz gym will rock with the musical talents of the PAT TRAVERS BAND. This is your chance to see Travers live and discover why his career has been quoted as a "subtle rewrite of the guitar star myth."

Travers has brought his talents to an ever-growing legion of listeners, and now with Black Pearl, he has cultivated a well-rounded gem of a disc that lets his talents truly shine.

While Black Pearl is rife with Travers' dazzling variety, it also has, as Travers points out, "Some of the best songs I think I've ever written."

Travers ability to be soulful, bluesy, majestic, hard hitting, jazzy and fiery all in one album has been his trademark from the start, when the Toronto-born guitarist, frustrated with the limited musical opportunities in his hometown, migrated to London to seek his break. Through perseverance and the force of his talents, Travers landed himself a recording contract.

Upon heading back across the Atlantic, Travers brought a spark of life to the '70s music scene, obtaining for himself a reputation as one of Rock 'n' Roll's most incandescent performers.

"I've always loved what I do, but lately I've had renewed enthusiasm for every aspect of it. I want to go out and blow people's jets." This is an opportunity you won't want to miss. Tickets are still available at the Union Box Office or at the door for $6.99. Tickets can also be purchased at the door at showtime.

Among her literary works are Night Comes Softly, Gemini, The Women and the Men, and Spin a Soft Black Song. These are just a few of her outstanding books.

Any student can see this poet extraordinaire for only $1.25 with a valid ID. The general public is only $2.00.

FAST TIMES AT EIU

by Leslie Talley

Is your lifestyle slowing you down? Here is a chance for some fast-paced entertainment. Fast Times at Ridgemont High will be shown on Friday, February 4, at 6:30 and 9 p.m. in the Grand Ballroom.

Fast Times At Ridgemont High is a look into today's fast, funny, friendly and frantic lifestyles. Sean Penn stars as the school clown/surfer supreme who has been causing trouble since third grade. The movie also involves other teens at Ridgemont High as they struggle through a year of love, Pac-Man, cruising and rock and roll. The hot film is highlighted by top rock songs from Jackson Browne, Tom Petty, The Go-Go's, Stevie Nicks and others.

Fast Times At Ridgemont High is "engagingly well-made...Sean Penn is one of the most hilarious presences to hit the screen since John Belushi was let loose in Animal House," said Kevin Thomas of the Los Angeles Times. The Village Voice calls Fast Times, "awesome in its humor."

Don't miss this hilarious rendition of the American teen scene. Catch it for only $1.25. Brought to you by the University Board Movie Committee.
